

ALONZO RUNYARD HEADS ANTIOCH LEGION POST

Succeeds S. M. Wallace;
Rev. Simms Chosen Sr.
Vice Comander

INSTALLATION TO BE HELD OCTOBER FIRST

Ushered into office by an unanimous vote, Alonzo Runyard, who last year was senior vice commander of the Antioch post of the American Legion, was named commander of that organization at a regular meeting held here Thursday. He succeeds S. M. Wallace.

In Marine Corps.

Mr. Runyard enlisted in the marine corps February 18, 1918. After being in training in Paris Island, S. C., for three months, he sailed for France, landing in Brest in May. On July 11, he was wounded and taken to a hospital at Vichy, where he remained for two months. Following his discharge, he was attached to the ordnance department of the army; he then went to Blot, where he was put into a marine casual company to be returned to the United States, arriving here on Christmas Eve, 1918. Commander Runyard was discharged from the corps on April 17, 1919.

Other officers elected are as follows: Senior vice commander, Reverend Rex Simms; junior vice commander, W. K. Hills; finance officer, Clarence Shultz; sergeant-at-arms, George Helmschmiller; member executive board, S. M. Wallace; delegates to county council, Paul Chase, Russell Mead.

The installation will be held on October 1. Appointive officers will also be named at this time.

HUNTERS URGED TO STOP KILLING HEN PHEASANTS

Emmerson Appeals to Men to Spare Unprotected
Game Birds

LAST LEGISLATURE FAILED TO AMEND GAME CODE

In an effort to stop the wanton slaughtering of hen pheasants which have been outside the protection of the law since September 16, Governor Louis L. Emmerson yesterday issued a statement from Springfield, earnestly appealing to Illinois sportsmen to stop shooting the birds.

Negligence on the part of the last legislature in failing to continue in effect the protective legislation, although it was recommended by the state department of conservation, has left the state without authority to prevent the slaughter of the birds.

Governor's Statement.

"It has come to my attention that the closed season for hen pheasants expired on September 16 and, due to the fact that the legislature did not amend the game code as recommended by the state department of conservation to prevent the killing of these birds," Governor Emmerson said. "Therefore I am most earnestly appealing to sportsmen of Illinois to refrain from killing these game birds that inadvertently have been deprived of legal protection, and am requesting that the Izaak Walton League and all similar organizations call upon members and the general public to follow this sportsmanlike course of action.

Urges Co-Operation.

"Furthermore, I urge all farmers whose lands are posted against trespassing to insist on vigorous prosecution of all hunters who violate the trespass order to kill pheasants.

"Through the game farms the department of conservation has distributed approximately 50,000 pheasant eggs this year, and expects to release approximately 15,000 live birds before the weather puts an end to this year's propagation activities. It is estimated that each hen pheasant will breed ten or twelve young each season. Hence, at the rate the state now is proceeding, it will not be long until pheasants again are plentiful, provided the hunters of Illinois do not take advantage of the legislative oversight that left these birds without legal protection.

"Failure of the sportsmen to protect them will mean that all of the state's efforts to propagate these birds will have been done for naught, and that the pheasant soon will be a bird of the past."

SET OF BOOKS GIVEN TO LOCAL LIBRARY

Through the efforts of the local librarian, Miss Mary Stanley, and former commander of the Antioch post of the American Legion, S. M. Wallace, the library here has recently been presented with a valuable set of books, entitled, "Progress of Nations," the gift of the Art Institute, Chicago.

Published for the benefit of the disabled American veterans of the World war, the ten volumes are deluxe and relate the story of the world and its peoples from the dawn of history to the present day. The compilers are eminent historians of various colleges and universities throughout the country.

It was through the kindness of the library extension division at Springfield that Miss Stanley was first informed of the possibility of securing the books for the local library.

Due to the fact that many Antioch people have evinced an interest in this set of books, volume one has been placed in the office of the Antioch News for your inspection.

PROSPECTS FOR FAIR ARE BRIGHT; SPACE IS NEARLY ALL SOLD

Big Machinery Exhibits and Free Acts to Be Features

Prospects for a fair that will command county-wide attention loomed bright this morning when announcement was made that nearly all space available for commercial and amusement concessions for the Antioch country fair had already been let.

Although the fair does not open its gates until October 8, practically all space has been sold and those who wish concessions should act quickly, according to C. L. Kuttli, secretary.

Large Machinery Exhibit.

With the co-operation of several farm machinery dealers of the county, one of the best displays of the latest farm machinery available is being planned. As several automobile dealers have already agreed to show their latest models, it is expected one of the largest automobile shows ever held in Antioch will be one of the big features of the fair.

Definite plans for the performance of free acts every day and night have also been made, the Latonas, acrobats, comedians and contortionists of Webster City, Ia., having been engaged.

Admission Free to Children.

Grade and high school children of Lake county and the surrounding territory will be admitted free, according to Mr. Kuttli.

STATE TO PROBE CAUSE OF SCARLET FEVER AT HICKORY

School Is Closed to Prevent Spread of Malady; Water Supply Is Suspected

A representative of the state department of public health is expected this week to investigate the cause of the prevalence of scarlet fever in Hickory neighborhood, which for a second time within the year has caused the closing of school there.

Cases of the disease have been reported from the homes of Charles Truax, Bert Edwards and Leo Carney. School has been closed for a period of two weeks to prevent the further spread of the disease, and Supervisor William A. Rosling has reported the matter to the state health department. The recurrence of the malady has led to the belief that possibly the water well at the school may have been the cause. Several cases of the disease were reported from the Hickory neighborhood last winter.

Speed That Is Proper Also Is Legal, Illinois Supreme Court Rules

Statute Forbids Communi- ties Tampering With State Law

Chicago, Ill., September 23.—"Observe State Speed Laws" is the warning on signs now being posted by the Illinois state highway department at the limits of incorporated municipalities, points out the Chicago Motor Club.

These signs are replacing, in most instances, other signs posted by the municipalities and which indicated speed limits frequently in conflict with the provisions of the Illinois motor vehicle act with respect to speed inside the limits of municipalities. This practice, in itself, is in violation of the act, which forbids communities from setting speed limits which differ from those specified by the state.

In response to many inquiries concerning the provisions of the act with respect to the speed of passenger cars in incorporated cities, towns and villages, the motor club pointed out that the prima facie limit is 15 miles per hour in closely built-up business districts; 20 miles per hour in residential districts; and 25 miles per hour elsewhere than in closely built-up districts but within the corporate limits. In view of the fact that these are prima facie speed limits, and that the act also provides that no one shall drive a car at a speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the traffic and the use of the way, nor shall endanger life or property, these limits are not to be construed as arbitrary," the legal department of the motor club explained. "Under certain conditions, one could exceed these limits without violating the law; under other conditions, driving at such speeds would be illegal.

"The act specifies that driving in excess of these limits shall be prima facie evidence that such speed was improper. The accused must show that the speed at which he was driving was not unreasonable nor was he endangering life or property. Thus, any speed that is proper also is legal. The Illinois supreme court has, in substance, so ruled.

"The prima facie speed limit in the open country is 45 miles per hour. The same provisions just mentioned apply to it; under safe conditions, it is permissible to drive faster without in fact violating the law. Under other conditions, wherein the view ahead might be obstructed, or when traffic is heavy, a speed of 45 miles per hour might be illegal."

ANTIOCH HIGH SQUAD SPANKS BENSENVILLE WITH SCORE OF 6-0

Walsh, King, Brogan, and McNeil Star in Passing and Plunging

Pursuing its usual policy of winning football games, the Antioch township high school grabbed the bacon from its old rival, Bensenville, with a score of 6-0 on the local field Saturday, the touchdown being made by McNeil on a line plunge.

Walsh, center, was the star on the defense, and King, Brogan and McNeil on the offense, the former also starring in forward passing and the latter in plunging.

New Men Play Well.
Several new men, Morose, Pulaski, Snyder, Jenerick, Stephenberk, Riley, and Keulman, did their share toward bringing the victory to the local team by playing mighty fine football, according to Coach Reed.

Due to the fact that the time did not permit of the new members of the team learning all of the rules, Antioch was penalized several times during the game because of breach of these regulations. However, much effort is being made to prevent this happening at the next game, which will be played with Arlington Heights here on October 3.

FARM BUREAU WILL STAGE BIG EVENT

Co-Operation Jubilee to Be at Libertyville School October 16

The Lake county Farm Bureau is planning the biggest night ever staged in its history. This celebration will be a Co-operation Jubilee where all farmer co-operative organizations in Lake county will be recognized.

Friday evening, October 16, at the Libertyville township high school, 4-H club achievement pins will be awarded and champions will receive cups given by the Libertyville Lumber company, Blatchford's Calf Meal company, and the Lake county Farm Bureau.

As Lake county has many co-operatives serving the farmers, it seems fitting that these be recognized before the debate between Larry Williams, manager of the Country Life insurance company, and Donald Kirkpatrick, attorney for the Illinois Agricultural Association, on the subject, "Resolved, That the Illinois farmer is not ready for co-operative marketing."

Mr. Williams has spent several years on chautauqua platforms, and Donald Kirkpatrick is also an outstanding orator.

At Wheaton, Ill., over 1,000 were in attendance when this debate was put on. Over 2,800 attended in McDonough county. The people of Lake county are particularly fortunate in having the opportunity to attend a debate by these men.

The Libertyville band will furnish music. Other special entertainment is being secured for the evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend a free lecture on Christian Science, by Dr. John M. Tut, C. S. B., of Kansas City, Mo., member of the Board of Lecturers of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., in the Masonic Temple, 220 North Sheridan road, Waukegan Ill., Monday evening, September 28, at 8 o'clock.

T. G. Rhodes writes from Chicago that he plans to have a sale of kitchen utensils at the boat house, starting October 2. You will hear more about this next week.

Air Demonstration to Be Held at Fort Sheridan Saturday

As one of the features of a spectacular air demonstration, an attack on Ft. Sheridan from the air will be made Saturday afternoon, September 26, at the Army Post, it was announced yesterday by Major Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corp area.

To carry out the "attack" and other maneuvers simulating wartime conditions, a squadron of fighting planes will arrive at the Curtis-Reynolds airport Friday morning. The attack will be made by means of machine guns and will be followed by a championship polo game between Ft. Sheridan and Chicago.

Special train and round trip rates will prevail for those who journey to the demonstration, according to reports.

AGNES BIENFANG RETURNS TO NEWS

Returning to the Antioch News after a sixteen months' absence, Miss Agnes Bienfang, of Whitewater, Wis., this week again took up her duties here as assistant editor. During her absence from the News' staff she was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, receiving a B. A. degree last June.

Miss Bienfang will have charge of feature and department work and also serve as local editor of the News. During her former employment here she made many friends in the community who welcome her return.

FT. SHERIDAN BOYS GO THROUGH HERE ON ANNUAL MARCH

Itinerary Is Outlined by Officers; Camp at Ball Park

Bronzed by warm sun rays and valiantly battling against the intense heat, over two hundred Ft. Sheridan khaki-clad buddies invaded Antioch late Tuesday morning, as local curious and enthusiastic spectators demonstrated their interest by lining the streets to view the parade.

On Hundred-Mile Hike.
In accordance with a custom which has been observed at the fort for a number of years, the boys are required, as a part of their training, to go on an annual 100-mile hike, the route being designated by the officers at the camp. This year their itinerary took them through the Great Lakes Naval Station, Camp Logan, Kenosha, Padook Lake, Antioch, Fox Lake, and Libertyville.

Is Hot Marching.
"It's darn hot marching this kind of weather," was the statement made by one of the fellows when interviewed by a representative of the Antioch News, Tuesday afternoon. Hope of reaching home by Saturday, however, lent a bright hue to the youth's conversation.

The boys spent the night here, their quarters being located at the ball park, west of the city.

High School 7-cent fare, and have racketeers hop the price 25 cent per month?

WHY NOT WIDEN GRAND AVENUE

A big road bond issue was by a small minority vote a couple years ago. How about using that fund for widening the lane pavement on Grand avenue of the Millburn road for several miles?

Nine-foot width is too narrow and practical use in zone of dense traffic to the Fort region.

WHOSE FINANCIAL SUCCESS

A bank window advertisement "Persistent and regular practice is necessary in marksmanship; so systematic and regular saving necessary for financial success." But how do taxpayers who have over $100,000 in a bank in Lake county next year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beebe, of Chicago, are visiting at the George Garfield home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Webb left Tuesday for Harrisburg, Ill.

The Antioch grade school football team defeated the Lake Villa squad here, 7-3, yesterday. Last week they beat Grayslake and next Wednesday they will play Grayslake there.

SMITH WANTS EARLY TRIAL FOR NELSON

State's Attorney Will De- mand Plea of Guilty or Not Guilty

BELIEVE INDICTMENTS TECHNICALLY RIGHT

Early trial of charges against officials of the Waukegan State bank, indicted by the special grand jury, and dictated by the special grand jury, who of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who is charged with misfeasance in office, will be demanded by State's Attorney A. V. Smith, it was announced, following the indictment of Nelson and others alleged to be involved in irregularities connected with the failure and closing of the bank, June 17.

Nelson is accused of misfeasance in office and culpable omission of duty in six counts. Others named in the indictments are John Murray Connors and Milton E. Smith, former vice presidents of the institution.

The grand jury previously had indicted Norman O. Geyer, former president of the bank. The penalty, in case Nelson is convicted of the charges against him, is removal from office or a fine not to exceed $10,000, or both.

Nelson is charged with failure to close the bank last October 24 when, it was charged, he should have had knowledge the bank was insolvent. On that date, according to the indictment, the capital stock of the bank was grossly impaired and the assets were insufficient to meet deposit liabilities. Nelson, it was charged, was in a position to know that the bank was being conducted illegally.

Permitted Bank to Reorganize.
The auditor is also charged with failure to order an assessment on the stockholders of the bank. Instead of closing the bank he is said to have permitted a reorganization which kept the bank alive for several months. Four counts were drawn on the first allegation and two on the second.

Fewer Answers Protest.
When informed of Auditor Nelson's contention that the grand jury's indictment was "groundless," Frank T. Fowler, foreman, said:

"An indictment returned after nearly a month of investigation by twenty-three conscientious men is sufficient answer to such statements. All members of the grand jury have sacrificed their time to attend every session, in an attempt to make this a real investigation. That is all I can say at present."

Will Resume Probe Monday.
Grand jurors Tuesday concluded their probe of the defunct bank for the week and indicated that they would finish their task next Wednesday afternoon by holding a 3-day session that will start Monday.

Lehmann a Year in Business; Celebrates in Anniversary Sale

Waukegan Firm Offers Sur- prising Values in Paint and Hardware

The Grand Avenue Paint & Hardware, 1336 Grand avenue at Butler street, Waukegan, today announces the first anniversary sale of the firm established one year ago by A. Lehmann, former Fox Lake hardware dealer. Startling values in every department of the modern store will be offered during the sale, according to the advertisement appearing in today's News.

"Even in these hard times, buying made easy at our store," Lehmann says. The hitherto unheard of prices on paints are made possible through the fact that the company operates its own paint factory, Lehmann explains.

Ag Department Here Has Big Enrollment

The department of vocational agriculture of the Antioch high school has the largest enrollment since the establishment of the course in 1920, according to an announcement made this morning. There are now forty-four boys studying soils, crops, and farm mechanics. Two others are expected to enroll soon.

Each one of these boys will be carrying on a home project. The purpose of these projects is to introduce a better grade of work on the home farms, introducing purebred livestock, standard bred poultry, better grains, and modern practices.

These boys are organized into the Antioch chapter of the Future Farmers of America, a national force having much weight in the influence of public welfare.

Since the coming of C. L. Kuttli, present director of the department, in 1923, the department has grown from sixteen students to forty-four.

THE PRESENT DEPRESSION

It's time now to begin feeling a little optimistic—Old Man Depression, about whom we've all heard so much during the last several months, is getting old and feeble and will soon, through lack of motivating force, as well as popular support, be forced to recede into the ranks of those gone, but not forgotten—that is, if the past is any indication of the future.

A study of American business cycles reveals that business in this country has passed through numerous panics ever since 1821. Furthermore, they have occurred with a certain impressive regularity. As early as 1622, in fact, Sir William Petty observed the length of this business phenomenon to be seven years. Later students have differed as to the number of years, but there can be no question that since men first began to transact business by means of currency and credit there never has been a long period of uninterrupted prosperity. Just as the four seasons follow each other with unflinching regularity, so do business boom, strain and crisis, depression and revival come in a sequence which never, in the economic history of the United States, have been known to vary.

Regardless of other differences, economists are agreed that the causes of these cycles are closely allied with human nature. Social psychologists choose to express this "do-as-others-do" movement, which is ever in our midst, in terms of mass psychology. In other words, under the same conditions, we all act pretty much in the same way.

When times are good, we provide ourselves with very excellent reasons why the boom should last forever; but that just isn't the way it works out. By and by wages and other costs begin to overtake selling prices, and profits begin to decline. Finally, credit limits are reached, factories shut down, and wage earners are deprived of their purchasing power. Everybody stops buying, expecting lower prices. Business failures increase and all the people seem ultra-pessimistic.

At this point everybody reasons that bad times will never come to an end, just as they appeared to be certain a year or so before that prosperity would continue permanently. Money piles up in the bank and interest rates decline. Then, finally someone discovers that there is a shortage of goods in certain lines. A few factories increase output, the market gets better, prices go up, and the pendulum starts going the other way again. That's a word picture of the average business cycle.

If the past is any indication of the future, then, when you are in a period of moderate prosperity, you can look for some sort of change in from eighteen to twenty-four months. When you're in the midst of a riot of prosperity, you can look for a change in twelve months.

If businessmen would make themselves thoroughly familiar with the trends of business as reflected in business statistics and the newspaper, they could evade some of the embarrassment and discomfort identified with these depressions.

CONVERTED TOO LATE

After several years of unsuccessful efforts to get a local merchant to advertise, the publisher of a Kansas weekly newspaper recently was surprised to receive an offer for a full-page advertisement from a former non-advertiser.

Glancing at the copy, the publisher saw that it advertised a "closing out sale." The merchant was going out of business. His advertising competitors had taken his trade and there was nothing for him to do but quit. So the newspaperman had landed his prospect at last.

The merchant recognized the power of advertising to help him out of business, but had never tried to use it as a means of staying in business.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Matter" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 20.

The Golden Text was, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away" (Matthew 24:35).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea; Be still, and know that I am God" (Psalms 46:1, 2, 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The dream that matter and error are something must yield to reason and revelation. Then mortals will behold the nothingness of sickness and sin, and sin and sickness will disappear from consciousness" (p. 347).

Pepys' "Fountain Pen"

"Observer" traces the fountain pen back to a dictionary of 1754, but it would appear that Samuel Pepys possessed some form of fountain pen nearly a century earlier," writes a contributor to the letter column of a London paper. "On August 9, 1693, the delightful diarist went to hear a sermon by Mr. Mills, and tells us: 'This day I began to make use of the silver pen to carry ink in. Mr. Coventry did give me, in writing this sermon, taking only the heads of it in Latin, which I shall, I think, continue to do.'"—Detroit News.

ELECTRICITY FOR THE FARM

YEARs ago when farmers were hitching up their best buggies and driving to town for a Sunday afternoon visit, they discovered that their city cousins were not using kerosene lamps any more. They marveled at the little switch that flooded a room with electric light. And, returning home, they envied this new invention that had been added to all the other conveniences of city life.

Today things are changing. Electric service lines no longer stop at the city limits. They parallel hundreds of country roads. They branch off to deliver electricity to thousands of farms in northern Illinois.

Of course this extension must come slowly. It is expensive work. In towns and cities, homes are compactly grouped twenty or more to the block. But in the country they are scattered perhaps two or three to the square mile. A file of wooden wire-strung poles that in the city can serve hundreds of families might, in the country, serve only six. And the cost of constructing the line is the same.

So that it might cooperate with farmers to the fullest extent in making electric service available, the Public Service Company began studying maps of its rural territory. Three years ago it introduced a "Five Year Plan" for farm electrification. It calls for an expenditure of $1,000,000.

In 1933, when the program is completed, rural lines will penetrate into most of the important farming sections of the seventeen counties served by the Company. Short extensions from these "artery" lines can then bring service to thousands of additional farms in northern Illinois.

Once available, this electricity can find plenty of work to do. Far more than merely replacing kerosene lamps and lanterns. It provides heat for cooking, cold for cooling. It provides power for speeding through most of the farm's tedious chores—in the barns and farmyard as well as the house.

To demonstrate the possibilities of electrified farming, the Public Service Company operates a model farm in Lake County, a few miles west of Mundelein. This 80-acre tract is open for inspection every day. Here electric motors may be seen pumping water, grinding grain, cutting ensilage and filling the silo, milking cows and hatching chickens. . . Advice on all phases of farming is given out by college-trained experts. Regular educational meetings are scheduled for the discussion of timely problems.

Profiting from the Company's active interest in rural electrification are more than 8,000 farms in northern Illinois now enjoying electric service. In their homes these farmers are enjoying big-city comforts and conveniences. In their barns they are letting this new hired man save time, labor and money.

WILMOT PIRATES WIN GAME FROM KENOSHA EX-COLLEGE STARS

Student Council Organized in High School; Governs School Activities

The Wilmot Pirates traveled to Kenosha Sunday and defeated the ex-College All Stars, 3-2, in a game marked by several brilliant plays. Norm Richter and Rhem Miller opposed each other in a well-pitched game, the former allowing only five well-scattered hits, and the latter, seven. Ground rules were necessary, limiting the hits to two bases. Oetting, of the Pirates, and Vletz, of the All-Stars, were the only men able to connect for two hits. Ford's running one-handed catch of Vletz's line drive in the fifth inning and Nordstrom's fielding at short were the high lights of the game.

LAKE VILLA WOMAN GIVES PARTY IN HONOR OF HUSBAND

Improvements Are Being Made Along the Lake Shore in Park

Dinner was enjoyed in the pleasant grove on Cedar lake. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Druce, Mr. and Mrs. Will Kahler, Mr. and Mrs. John Washburn, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Churchill, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hucker and daughter, June, Mr. and Mrs. George Brandstetter and daughter, Avis Ellen, C. The day was ideal for a picnic and the group had a very pleasant time.

A great deal of work has been done along the lake shore in the park recently, dirt and sand having been cleared from the lake and used to fill in the low places. Next spring will be an ideal time for public-spirited citizens to donate and plant trees in the upper end of the park.

Lose Something? A Tiny Want Ad Might Help You

"We must call on you again for a black dog between the greyhound and a spaniel, no white about him, only a streak on his breast, and tail a little bobbed. It is His Majesty's own dog."

Here's a want ad that appeared in a London newspaper over 250 years ago. When Charles II of England lost his dog, he immediately turned to the want ads for aid. Today valuable lost articles are located each day for eager owners through the want ads of the Antioch News. These ads are the perfect medium, for they find their way into four out of five Antioch homes. Both the loser and the finder know that they have an excellent chance of locating one another through the News classified section.

This is but one duty performed by the all-powerful want ads. Look through today's classified section and you will be amazed at the variety and enormity of the things listed.

Gordon Hamlin and a friend drove to Peoria Monday. Gordon has been obliged to give up his college work this fall because of ill health, but expects to enter Bradley at the beginning of the second semester.

The Royal Neighbors will meet at the hall Tuesday evening. As this is the last meeting before the annual convention at Gurnee, a good attendance is desired. Dues may be paid to Mrs. Zelma Hucker, who is the new recorder.

Let's turn from luxuries to comfort in our homes. After all is said and done, 'tis true that there's no place like home. Ditch the old porchful of snow.

They have "zip-pers" on everything now from galoshes to overalls. May we suggest that they put 'em on orange peels?

Vacation days for 1931 are over, but the Mule-Hide roofs stayed on the job all summer without kicking. If your roof needs any help before winter, little or much, let us show you what guaranteed Mule-Hide material will do for you at little cost. We have the exclusive franchise here.

The last of September and first thing you know, it's going to be time to start shovelling snow.

When you build for permanence, you build with brick. And almost invariably, you will find that you've built for economy, too.

Over in London a customer, after waiting a long time for his lunch, said to his waitress, "Pardon me, is this 'Ye Olde Tyme Tea Shoppe' or 'Ye Any Olde Tyme Tea Shoppe'?"

Farmers whose sheds are not all set to do justice to the stock and the valuable machinery this winter can afford to get a bit of lumber and on the odd days fix up those shelters. Good housing adds dollars to the market value of the stock and years of usefulness to the machines. We will be glad to help with a stick or a load.

Chevrolet connecting rods are matched in sets of six to within one-quarter ounce, and are individually fitted by hand to the crankshaft. Bearings are of Babbitt metal cast into the rods under heavy air pressure and at 800° Fahrenheit.

Possessing the basic goodness of sound design and fine manufacture

From the selection of raw materials to the completion of the finished product, each process of building, assembling and checking the Chevrolet Six is marked by extreme care and precision. An exhaustive system of test and inspection makes certain that every part meets specified dimensions exactly. Many of these parts are held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. No manufacturer in the industry uses more care or precision in building and testing than Chevrolet.

Just as every part of the car is soundly built, every feature is soundly designed. In planning the motor, Chevrolet engineers were not content to offer the public anything less than tried and proved design. They knew that the only satisfactory way to get smooth, flexible power in a car is to use at least six cylinders. So they adopted the six-cylinder engine without compromise. And this is what you get in today's Chevrolet Six.

As a result of this sound designing and sound manufacturing, you can buy a Chevrolet and know you are getting a genuinely good automobile—soundly designed, soundly built, basically and technically right.

THE SPECTATOR

That it won't be long now before the battery of guns will start roaring forth their familiar tumultuous salute is evidenced here daily by the unusually large number of calls for "No Hunting" signs.

Nothing is more disastrous to the job of sentence making than these inviting autumn mornings—the farmer, for one, is to be envied. Even though he does have to work hard and carry his share of the burdens created by the much-talked-of depression, he at least has the opportunity to spend much of his time out of doors.

During the next few weeks Antioch will be losing some of its most worthwhile and interesting residents—the birds who have made this city their home since early last spring will soon be starting on their long southern journey. Many of these birds will never reach their destination. Most people do not realize the many dangers encountered and the fearful loss of life entailed on this annual journey, not only by natural enemies, but by weather conditions and modern improvements.

The Austin car, that pocket edition of an automobile, never fails to come in for its share of derision. The latest story about it concerns two men, riding in one of the tiny cars on a bright sunny day. Suddenly, the light of the sun was blotted out and darkness reigned. The driver of the Austin switched on his lights, making the remark that they must have entered a tunnel; but his companion, after one look out of the side window, said, "No need for the lights, just turn right. You're under a truck."

Yes, Antioch has her Austins, her sunny days, and her trucks, but when it comes to her tunnels, she just ain't on the map. So "The World's Best Small Town" can't take the credit for having been the scene of this episode.

Signs of autumn—the shortening days, colder and doughnuts, football talk, chilly mornings, warmer noons, nature's gorgeous dress, men wearing felt hats, wheat cakes, sausage, and prunes, blankets on beds, talk about hunting, squirrels putting up their winter's supply of food, heavy coal trucks on the streets.

In case you've been driven to wonderment about the buddies who arrived in town Tuesday, they were from Ft. Sheridan and on the last "shank" of their annual hike. Here and there and everywhere groups of them were loitering Tuesday afternoon, some of them coyly cussing and discussing the different deficiencies of their respective "big moments." Is it a version of the Golden Rule or is it merely what happens to all well-meaning rah-rah boys that they should be required to thus gallivant around when the thermometer is soaring in the 90's?

If you have a sense of humor in addition to a brain and were lucky enough to be one of the spectators, you couldn't help getting a kick out of the way Bert Robert's radiator was acting up out here on Main Tuesday afternoon. You should have seen Bob Mann when he came out of the drug store and spied the naughty animal. Well, to make a long story short, he simply burst into what college men call "unholy gales of laughter" and walked off just like Santa Claus in that poem you must have read once upon a time.

Master Duke is the name of the little Boston bull terrier who has been recently adopted by Miss Elizabeth Webb. He is a perfect specimen of his type, won't bite, and makes friends readily.

Willing the usual "raindrops," Man-killing Harry, big shot of Antioch when it comes to things fistic, dashed into the office yesterday and negotiated big business.

Now that you've partaken of, masticated, digested, and assimilated what

Thousands Hear Medinah Band at the Cermak Home

The famous Medinah band of Chicago was heard in concert Sunday afternoon at the home of Mayor A. J. Cermak on Channel lake, where thousands of the mayor's friends gathered to enjoy the hospitality and the musical treat offered by the World's Fair mayor.

It was open house all day at Tony Cermak's home and the spacious grounds were filled with friends who called to pay their respects to the host and to hear the famous band. Over 2,000 partook of the mayor's famous beefsteaks and other food served during the day.

At the close of the concert in the late afternoon, the band leader turned over his baton to the mayor, who began playing a well-known composition on his mouthorgan. Soon the entire band had joined in and Cermak's success as a conductor was attested by prolonged applause from the crowd, including members of the band.

The successor of the famous Old Eagle Eye has to offer on the occasion of its initial appearance in the columns of the Antioch News, let it be explained that the split infinitive that nearly shocked you to death isn't such a "terrible" (pardon the murder) crime after all, because the Spectator is celebrating this week, you know.

Old Eagle Eye is gone, but not forgotten—how about it, Pat?

Shell President

R. G. A. van der Woude, newly elected president of Shell Petroleum Corporation, who became directing head of that organization July 1, relieving George Leigh-Jones, who has been acting president. The latter is president of the Shell Oil Company operating in the Pacific Coast states and has returned to his headquarters at San Francisco. Mr. van der Woude has been associated with Shell interests for 25 years. He served as vice president of the Shell Petroleum Corporation in 1923.

NOTICE TO WOMEN

Due to the many inquiries received recently, the committee in charge of the women's department of the Antioch Country Fair wish to announce that exhibitors show only their own work.

The Only Woman

NANA BRYANT, famous actress who, in assuming the role of an announcer on the programs of the new Lucky Strike Summer Party Orchestra, thereby achieved the unique distinction of being the first and only woman ever to appear in such a capacity on a big radio hour.

The Lucky Strike Summer Party Orchestra, featuring slow rhythms, three vocalists and the smartest, most modern orchestral arrangements is being heard on Saturday evenings, while the regular Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, retaining its famous lively tempo, no vocalists, and simple unembellished orchestrations continues to broadcast on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The "battle" between the two orchestras, each presenting a different style of dance music is being followed with the most intense interest. The radio audience has been asked to express its preference and the "winner" will eventually take over all three broadcast periods.

They know that you buy fuel for heat, not for ashes. When you have heavy loads of ashes, that means that your money has bought that much less heat. Burn Koppers Chicago Coke and you'll be rid of these five wastrels. Koppers Coke leaves no ash worth sifting—and it's smokeless, sootless, full-burning, easily regulated and light on the shovel. THE LION THAT JUMPED TOO FAR

Well s'r, driftin' down an African river on a tree is no picnic. First off, a big hippopotamus rose up out of the water, opened a mouth as big as a cave and roared like a China Sea typhoon. Perk took a shot at th' hippo and fell backwards into th' water. In th' excitement my gun slipped out of my hand and sank to the bottom of th' river.

As I was reachin' for Perk to pull him out he began to yell that somethin' was bitin' him. I heaved him up onto th' tree, an' I'll be dinged if there weren't three or four big-mouthed fish hangin' on to him. We'd just knocked th' last fish from one of Perk's legs when I saw a canoe full of savages makin' for us. Luckily for us we had drifted in close to shore. In one jump we were in th' jungle, runnin' like scared rabbits. After a little we stopped to get a breath or two. Just then, out of th' corner of my eye, I saw a big lion on a rock above us, ready to leap. By cracker we lit out of there like bullets out of a gun, with th' lion roarin' after us.

I spotted a big tree with a limb about ten feet from th' ground. Perk and I jumped for th' limb just as th' lion made his big leap for us and hit th' trunk of th' tree head-on. We got down from our perch and I'll be dodgasted if th' lion wasn't deader'n a door-nail. To this day I believe it was th' same lion that went adrift in our boat for nearly a week. We found th' boat on th' beach.
